HOME TOWN PAPER

There's something about the most of us
No matter where we go—
We have within a longing;
At least I've found it so;
To keep in touch with loved ones
While wandering up and down,
And we loved to see the paper
From the old home town.

It receives a hearty welcome
As it makes its regular round
Telling us of our old friends,
And where they may be found;
It just sort o' keeps together
Heartstrings once entwined;
It's the voice from our old home Town.

Where town and paper seem combined.

We received these verses from Mrs. L. Hager of Devon, who sent in her subscription renewal at this week. She sends on her paper to Rev. and Mrs. E. Longmire who now live in Red Deer.

Mrs. Hager also tells us that Mrs. Bolger of Kyle, Sask. and formerly of Irma has been sick in hospital for four months but is now well enough to be home again.

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan
Provincial Junior Seed Fair
This seed fair will be held in Calgary March 5th and 6th. All farm young people between the ages of 18 and 22 are eligible to enter. There are no entry fees required and only a two pound sample is needed. Samples must be in Calgary by March 2nd. Entry forms and regulations are available from my office. I am sure some of the young people in this district should be able to enter and win some of the prize money.

Trees for 1959
There are still supplies of some trees available for 1959 planting. As long as the land you want to put the trees on was summer-fallowed last year you can apply. Varieties still available are Caragana, White Spruce, Lodge Pole Pine, Scotch Pine, Green Ash, American Elm, Siberian Larch and Russian Poplar. If you have land ready but just neglected to apply for trees, get your application in right away.

Barn Ventilation
Adequate ventilation in barns and hen houses is very important if animals and birds are to be kept doing their best. Damp, frosted conditions tend to cause disease and unthriftiness in stock. Ventilation can be by gravity or fans or a combination of these. The main thing is to change the air often enough to keep the building dry. There are illustrations of the principles of ventilation available from my office.

Municipal Annual Meetings
Farmers should have great interest in their annual meetings. After all it is their business. The attendance is so low that councillors do not get a true picture of the ratepayers' feelings on some of the matters which are brought up at these meetings. For your own sake you should be at the meeting.

Northern Nuggets

On Monday a most enjoyable afternoon was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Prior where a large number of friends gathered to honor Isabelle who has joined the RCAF and will be leaving for Quebec on Saturday.

Isabelle was rather surprised to see two ladies coming to visit, when her mother supposedly was dashing around getting ready for a trip to town. However when more and more ladies appeared she then began to realize that she had been laboring under a delusion for a very special reason.

Mrs. Kellar, Mrs. Lukins and Mrs. Ches Spornitz entertained with some very amusing contests which were followed by a sing-song. The presentation of a gift of money was made by Mrs. Ches Spornitz who expressed the good wishes of all for her future happiness and success in her new vocation. Isabelle fittingly responded and all joined in singing, "For she's a jolly good fellow."

A delicious lunch was then served by the ladies.

Mrs. W. Ramsay of Calgary visited in the district last week. We are very glad to hear that she is feeling better.

Sorry to hear that our old friend and neighbor, Mrs. L. H. Barsa, is a patient in the Wainwright hospital. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Robin Johnson is enjoying the company of her sister, Mrs. L. Imbeau of Edmonton.

A real family gathering took place on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ches Spornitz. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Spornitz, Mr. and Mrs. W. Spornitz, Jr. of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Spornitz of Wainwright; Miss Paula Spornitz of Lamont Hospital; Mr. and Mrs. Archie Fleming and family.

A number of ladies from Albert attended the cooking school in Irma on Tuesday. Mrs. Edgar Jones and Mrs. Charlie Archibald were among the lucky winners. Congratulations, Beatrice and Grace.

Irma Trims Edgerton Twice

On Feb. 10 the Irma boys travelled to Edgerton for the first time this season and came home with an easy 15 to 8 win. Edgerton scored first early in the first period, but Irma came back strong to outscore their opponents 9 to 3 before the period ended.

In the second period both teams played a closer checking game and kept the scoring down, with Irma getting two goals to Edgerton's one.

The third period, both teams made some good rushes with each team getting four goals. The Irma team played without their coach, A. Glasgow, 2nd captain G. Prosser, who were unable to go. With their manager Cliff Jones running the team and holding the boys, they came home with a win.

B. Fischer led the scoring with 5 goals, others going to B. Patterson, G. Lovig 2, R. Lovig 2, R. Prior 1, J. Ganie 1 and R. Glasgow 1. For the Edgerton team, Nichol got 4, Fischer 2, Taber 1, and Herbert 1.

On Feb. 16 the local boys again playing at Edgerton in the last game of the schedule, came home victors 14 to 5. Again B. Fischer led the Irma boys, getting no less than seven goals.

Irma drew first blood early in the opening period when B. Fischer scored, but Edgerton came right back to even it up, then scored again to lead 2-1 for a short time. After several good saves by the Edgerton goalie, Irma got 4 more goals before the period ended with Irma leading 5 to 2.

The second period saw the local boys pull well out in front, getting 5 goals while holding Edgerton scores. Play got somewhat more rugged half way through this period when a fight

Herbert with some of the other players trying to break it up, another one started between A. Glasgow and D. Fischer of Edgerton. All this received 5 minutes for fighting.

In the third, both teams missed some good scoring chances. Both goalies came up with some nice saves to keep the score down to 4 for Irma and 3 to Edgerton.

IRMA: M. Miller, G. Prosser, J. Ganie, J. Kennedy, B. Patterson, S. Archibald, Johnson, R. Lovig, B. Fischer, A. Glasgow, R. Prior.

Cooking School is Successful Event

The Cooking School sponsored by the Irma High School Students and presented by the Northwestern Utilities Ltd. was held in the School Auditorium on the evening of Feb. 17 and was a successful event.

Tickets were drawn for the various items of cookery and also for door prizes.

Mrs. Jack Savard won the set of Revere Aluminumware and Mrs. Younker won a large ham. Six Canada Packers' hampers were also drawn. Mrs. M. Melott was one of the lucky winners.

Midget Hockey

The Edmonton Midget B team stopped over in Irma on Friday, Feb. 13 for a second game with the local boys, and came away the winners by a 9-7 count.

In a wide-open, free-scoring game, Irma more than held their own during the first two periods, with the score tied 2-2 at the end of the first and Irma leading 4-3 when the second period ended.

The third period opened with Edmonton putting on the pressure and they ran up 4 quick goals. Irma came back and scored two more to close the gap again but once again Edmonton took advantage of some defensive lapses on the part of the Irma boys to count two more. Irma scored again before the closing bell to make the score read 9-7 before time ran out on them.

Barry Patterson with 3 goals, led the Irma scores, while Alan Doherty notched 2 goals with 1 each by G. Schryer and A. Barton.

Irma line-up: F. Withal, L. Reeds, L. Coulman, D. Prior, G. Schryer, Brian Patterson, Barry Patterson, A. Barton, A. Doherty, C. Fenton, I. Inglis.

On Feb. 8 the Edmonton boys defeated an all-star team from Hardisty, Killam and Sedgewick by a score of 9-3.

Then said Jesus unto them again, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. —John 10:7-11.

Winter fire prevention

Proper precautions against fire could avoid many of the 60,000 fires that break out in Canada each year.

Because of increased use of heaters, fireplaces and stoves during winter months, homeowners should take the following suggestions for greater safety:

1. Matches and cigarettes are a major cause of fire; make sure they are not left burning.
2. Do not smoke in bed.
3. Be sure that ash trays are readily available in every room.
4. Have electrical wiring checked for winter.
5. Electrical repairs and extensions should be done by qualified experts.
6. Chimneys and heating equipment should be cleaned and checked at least once a year.
7. Clear old magazines, rags and other inflammable objects from attic and basement.
8. If your house is an old one, be doubly sure that all heating and electrical equipment is safe.
9. Keep small children away from stoves and heating equipment.
10. Use only clean, dry, quality fuel for heaters and furnaces.
11. Do not block exits or stairways with portable heaters.

A town policeman recently explained to Mayor Ernie Fisher how a car was improperly parked on West street. He asked the advice of the Mayor on whether a parking ticket should be given in this particular case, since it protruded over the space allowed and in front of a driveway leading to a business property. "If the car is improperly parked, by all means put a ticket on it," Mayor Fisher advised the policeman. When Mayor Fisher a few minutes later came to get the car he was driving he found a parking ticket on it. He has since paid the fine.—The Signal Star, Goderich, Ont.

THE BLUE JAY

By C. S. HOUSTON, Yorkton

We would like to introduce you to the Blue Jay in the hope that you will subscribe to it. This magazine is published quarterly by the Saskatchewan Natural History Society in co-operation with the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History. The Blue Jay is a well-illustrated nature magazine containing about 200 pages each year. It is distributed early in March, June, September and December. The Blue Jay deals with all branches of nature: plants, birds, mammals and other animals, archeology and astronomy. It is now acknowledged to be one of the outstanding nature magazines on this continent.

The Blue Jay was first published (125 mimeographed copies) in Yorkton in the fall of 1942. Mrs. Isabel M. Priestly was editor and the renown of the bulletin spread rapidly and the membership increased greatly. Following the untimely death of Mrs. Priestly in 1946 Cliff Shaw acted as editor for two years. Then the Saskatchewan Natural History Society was formed and Lloyd Carmichael of Regina became editor. In 1951 the change was made from the mimeographed magazine to the printed booklet. This allowed freer use of illustrations the publication of more material. The membership of the society is now over 3,200. G. F. Ledingham, professor of biology at Regina College, is the editor.

The Blue Jay is recommended for school use by the Saskatchewan Department of Education. It contains a special school section, giving the children a chance to publish their own observations, stories, poems, drawings, and photographs. Book prizes are awarded each issue for the best contribution to this section. Miss Joyce Dew, of the Museum Extension Services, a former teacher, is editor of the Boys' and Girls' Section. The Blue Jay goes to 700 schools but it should be in every school in the province, for it is the only informative source of material on nature and conservation for the prairies.

Articles in the Blue Jay are about prairie nature. Some articles are about the common things to be seen in Saskatchewan, other articles report important new discoveries, but all articles help to make one more interested in and appreciative of our wildlife heritage and of the need for its conservation. Most of the articles are submitted by the members, but some are reports from our museum.

—If you are interested in any aspect of nature you should send in one dollar to the Editor of the Blue Jay, 2335 Athol Street, Regina.

Musically Yours
By BUD HAFSTEIN, Music Director

THE RE INTRODUCTION TO MUSIC

CFQC's recent change in music programming which, of necessity had as its primary objective the gaining of freedom from the bondage of the Hit Parade concept seems to be rapidly gaining a very heart warming response and support from our listeners. This vote of confidence expressed in many well written letters encourages us to further explore the vast and interesting World of Music for material which we hope you will find enjoyable.

During a program which occurs early on Sunday afternoons we will deal with the music of all Nations. Each program will have music that is characteristic of three different Nations such as France, the Ukraine and Spain and the following week three more national groups will be chosen.

The decision to have such a program was prompted by more than solely the desire to present different and interesting music. We feel that for many new citizens this will provide a welcome reminder of the homeland, and of still greater importance, it should point out clearly that just as their music makes its contribution and in time becomes a familiar part of our culture so will they as naturally and easily become accepted as an inseparable and indivisible part of our Nation.

A new feature on Tuesday and Thursday evenings will be a program of new recordings sponsored by one of the greatest of the recording companies. This will be doubly interesting because not only will the music be of first class quality but it will show that fine material, now as before, is being recorded and needed only public interest and subsequent demand to bring it forth.

In the afternoon program designed for the Western Development Museum and Pioneer the difficulty encountered may be to find authentic music. Not that the actual selections are not available but the available performers in those days sounded a lot different than the well fed professionals of today who have all the advantages of training and equipment. I rather expect that some reader will suggest that the pioneer musicians would not suffer by comparison with that I must agree, and merely pass the comment that the sound would be different and hard to duplicate.

I would at this time like to thank those readers who have so kindly written to us. I prefer to personally reply but this is not always possible.

So 'til next week we wish you happy listening on CFQC.

Ear mystery

Where there's a pup around the house, things are liable to turn up in the most unlikely places. In this connection, Bert Worsell has a story to tell about his nine-year-old son, Robert, and the five-month-old pup which was acquired by the household a while ago. Seems it was ear inspection time and Robert's mother was checking to make sure there was no wax. Neither she nor Dad could identify the mysterious white object which she found lodged away inside their son's ear. A local doctor was called and he removed the object. It was, says Dad, one of the pup's baby teeth which must have dropped in the boy's ear during a playful scuffle with the family pet. Robert hadn't complained; he didn't even know it was there. Dad comments philosophically: "Well, you couldn't say he didn't have a tooth in his head."—The Signal Star, Goderich, Ont.

Alberta Legislature In Session

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON—A nagging question remains unanswered after last week's by-election in the central Alberta riding of Olds.

The politicians still don't know for sure if the Progressive Conservative sweep in the last federal election has had an impact on provincial politics.

Conservative officials had declared the Olds by-election a test case, but when they failed to run a candidate the value of the vote as a political barometer of the next general election was washed out.

The victorious Social Credit candidate, Mayor Roderick A. Macleod of Sundre, the two-time favorite of the voters, will take his seat in the Legislature around the end of the month, after the 20-day waiting period required by the Election Act.

Results of the vote on the face of it would indicate Social Credit has lost none of its strength in the Olds riding, which has been a stronghold since 1935. The Liberals, of course, were disappointed, but they still insist the majority of Albertans think it's time for a change.

The Legislature got down to serious business this week after last week's pomp and ceremony, and it wasn't long before two non-confidence motions were thrown at the government.

The first came from Grant MacEwan, Liberal Opposition leader, who charged that the Speech from the Throne failed to indicate the government has recognized the need for long-range planning.

The second came from Conservative Leader Can Kirby, of Red Deer, who said the government failed to carry out projects proposed in the five-year plan as the need for them arose, and failed to present a far-reaching development program embracing all phases of Alberta's economic and social life.

Mr. MacEwan's motion was in the form of an amendment to the routine motion thanking the lieutenant-governor for the Throne Speech. Mr. Kirby's motion was an amendment to Mr. MacEwan's amendment.

At the time of writing, the House was still debating both of them.

The government's five-year plan has become an issue of the session, as was expected, but Opposition members can't find too much in it to criticize.

So far, they have attacked the government for not undertaking some of the projects earlier, and have pointed out that most of the measures were advocated as early as 1954 by Opposition ranks.

Premier Manning didn't speak until Mr. Kirby had introduced his non-confidence motion. Then the premier rose and gave Opposition members a lesson in how to conduct themselves. He suggested they cut out "negative, crippling criticism" and adopt a more positive approach to business in the Legislature.

Following are other highlights of the week:

Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross introduced a bill to outlaw X-ray shoe-fitting machines, as a means of cutting down the radiation hazard. If passed, the bill takes effect next January 1st.

Members passed a motion from Mrs. E. G. Robinson (S.C.—Medicine Hat) calling for extension of the provincial hospital plan to include out-patient diagnostic and emergency treatment services. They defeated a Liberal amendment calling for expansion of mental health services.

The perennial Liberal motion calling for establishing a provincial Hansard, or verbatim record of House debates, was defeated for the fourth time in four years. The vote was closer than usual, however—30 to 24.

Everybody but the Conservatives voted against a Tory motion asking for an investigation of government intervention in a dispute concerning ownership of shares in Cardston Co-op Ltd. The vote was 48 to 3.

Members discussed labor problems, particularly those involving the International Teamsters' Union, and passed a motion calling for a full review of the Labor Act.

Premier Manning declined to disclose details of an investigation which led to the dismissal and subsequent reinstatement last year of P. D. Hargrave, superintendent of the Brooks Horticultural Station.

A major debate on natural resources shapes up for this week. Liberal Leader MacEwan planned to introduce a motion calling for a royal commission to investigate government handling of resources and assess Alberta's requirements for the next 50 years.

The Throne Speech debate is expected to end on Friday of this week. Friday night, Provincial Treasurer Ted Himan will deliver the budget address outlining what is expected to be an all-time record budget.

Report From Parliament Hill

Since my last report to you, we have taken up a few agricultural supplementary estimates. The first was Science Service, for which we passed $375,000.

The second was health of animals with regard to compensation for animals that are slaughtered for reasons of health. This item took $100,000. The next item was Freight Assistance.

Western feed grain, which required $2,500,000. The following item was an extra $1,300,000 required to complete the payment on the $1.00 per acre payment to western Canada.

The last item we handled was an extra $225,000 for the Prairie Farm Assistance Act. These items all passed without too much discussion. We then attempted to pass an extra $2,500,000 for housing, in order that this project would help relieve the unemployment; however, we have run into a great deal of opposition and as yet this item is not passed.

I hope this report has been of interest to you, and if you have any suggestions or problems, I would be only too glad to hear from you.

Cliff Smallwood, M.P. for Battle River-Camrose, Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 13, 1959.

With majority of February over many of you homemakers will be thinking about redecorating your homes. It will give your spirits, as well as your home a lift.

TO ESTIMATE PAINT NEEDS: Figure the area to be covered in square feet. Divide by 600 if painting over smooth plaster. Divide by 500 if painting over sand plaster. Answer is the number of gallons needed.

FOR TRIM: Estimate one quart of paint for every five openings in the room. This will give enough for one coat.

PAINTING TIPS:

a. Strain Out Lumps: You must strain these out, otherwise they will plague you throughout the entire paint job. One of the best strainers is a nylon stocking.

b. Spatter Control: If the rim of your can is filled with paint, control the inevitable spatter with a cloth placed over the lid before you begin to hammer.

c. Give a paper plate to the bottom of your paint can, so that you can move from place to place without watching for drips.

d. Lump Remover: Try mixing up old paint lumps and all. Cut a piece of window screening the size of the can. Drop in the screen, and it will sink to the bottom—paint lumps and all.

e. Avoid resting a brush on the bottom of the can. Hammer a tack into the heel of the brush, and hang it on the rim of the paint can.

f. No Scum: Cover left-over paint with a film of turpentine. Stir this in as thinner on the next use. One other way: Store your paint cans upside down.

g. Paint Guard: Use an old venetian blind slat. A metal one works especially well.

Hell for Heaven

To take hell for heaven would be a bad bargain. But the possibilities are one in two you may be making that bad bargain. If you are giving up God's free gift of forgiveness by ignoring Jesus Christ, you're choosing hell over heaven.

Lent is the time the church reminds you of life's biggest and best bargain—God's free gift of heaven for hell.

That bargain is possible because God was willing to come from heaven and endure hell for man's sake. That was the bargain God was willing to make—He took hell for Himself to give heaven to you. This is the meaning of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

"Why will ye die?" is God's word urging you to take the best of God's "bad" bargain—take His Son for your Savior. The Lutheran church urges you to hear God's offer again during these days of Lent.

Letter Received From Jacksons'

13522 S. Yockey St., Westminister, Calif., Feb. 5th, 1959.

Dear Winnie: Just a few lines to let you know that we both keep well and have enjoyed every minute of our visit to California so far.

We spent two weeks with my Uncle and St. Helena, and there helped harvest the oranges and grapefruit, which were a very good crop. We are at present staying with our old friend Charlie Young, and visit every day with his niece, Nina, her husband and son Murray, both Nina and Charlie send their kindest regards to all their old friends in Irma and district.

We started down here on Monday, passing through Vallejo, Oakland, Modesto, Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles, where we spent the night. On Tuesday morning we went on to Long Beach and finally out here, where we have been soaking up the sunshine ever since.

On the way down we saw plenty of activity on the land, plowing, cultivating, discing, etc. also saw various crops being harvested such as cauliflower, lettuce, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, etc., all being done on a big scale. Also along the way we saw many large fields of sugar beets, some of them almost ready to harvest. Winter wheat in Washington, Oregon and California, mostly looked quite good.

We visited Knotts Berry farm yesterday and on the way there saw the unusual sight of a big field of rhubarb, probably about 50 acres. Many new attractions have been added to the Berry farm since we visited it two years ago, including a steer of Brahma-Hereford cross, which weighs 3,000 lbs., stands 6 feet high at the shoulder, claimed to be the biggest steer in the world, a two-year-old elephant, a tiny thing which is supposed to be the smallest elephant ever imported into the U.S.; and a pool in which about 20 seals swim, and begged for food from the people who were watching their antics.

We got quite a kick out of Old McDonald's farm, where we saw, amongst other unusual sights, a pig that climbed on a stagecoach and did down a chute and by so doing it released a small portion of grain which when the pig had cleaned it up, he went through the performance again, thus getting some more grain.

We saw a goat that got a very small portion of grain by butting a dummy-man, so clever had the goat become that it would go to the end of its pen and butt the dummy several times, each time releasing some grain, then it walked sedately back to the other end and ate up the grain, repeating the operation until all the grain was exhausted.

But what we thought was the soon turn was a big red rooster that walked sedately to one end of his pen and pulled a cord which released a small portion of feed. When this was cleaned up, he pulled the cord for more.

We ran on to quite a few other Canadians at Knotts, they were mostly from B.C.

The weather has been ideal since we came. There was a little smog this morning, but the sun came through about noon and this afternoon is really lovely. We get Canadian weather in the newspapers here, but absolutely no other news from north of the 49th parallel.

We plan on taking in the races at Santa Anita on Saturday, and next week hope to visit some friends in Compton and Los Angeles before returning to our 'uncles' place at St. Helena. Must now close, hoping all keep well in Irma. I remain, Yours Sincerely,

Jim Jackson.

Guest Weekend at University Feb. 26-28

For the past six years, students of the 12 faculties at the University of Alberta have sent Varsity Guest Weekend in an effort to familiarize the Alberta public with the scholastic and extracurricular activities on campus. The Weekend, scheduled this year for February 26th, to February 28th, is planned especially as a guide for high school students wishing to continue their education at varsity. As our committee is forced to operate on a minimum budget, we have relied in the past on the generous co-operation of newspaper and radio for publicity.

Scenes Filmed in Same Places as Described in Bible

To gain the utmost authenticity for his latest production, "The Ten Commandments," Cecil B. DeMille led a picked crew of stars and technicians in 1954 on a pilgrimage to Mount Sinai itself. The film group followed the exact path taken by Moses as described in Exodus and filmed scenes for the new picture in the very places described in the Bible.

A Paramount picture in VistaVision and Technicolor, "The Ten Commandments" will open locally next Thursday, Feb. 26 at the Brock Theatre.

With Charlton Heston in the role of Moses, the new DeMille masterpiece production also stars such top-flight performers as Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget and John Derek, among many other.

WANTS ADS DO BIG WORK

Echo - Rodino

Mrs. Abbie Winfield was hostess for her daughter, Peggy, and 15 youngsters who helped to celebrate Peggy's 14th birthday at an evening toboggan party. A most ample lunch was served, topped by jello and ice cream.

There was some excitement Sunday on the farm of A. Beckett, when numerous visitors came to see the caterpillar and dozer which had been doing brush clearing and sunk through the ice, burying at least half of the outfit. The equipment, belonging to Russell Hanson and being operated ably by Bill Johnston Jr., had suddenly crushed through the ice in a small neck of willow-brush where there appeared to be no apparent danger. Spectators were awed at the sight and coincidence. Pumping operations are in progress. It is anybody's guess how and how long it will take to recover the submerged "cat."

The first service at Rodino since August, occurred this Sunday with the Bishop of Edmonton Diocese taking the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Don LaFleur of Edmonton were visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. Greenwood Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. V. Shipley attended a square dance Wednesday evening at Paradise Valley.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Mr. Art McKee spent the major part of this week as a patient in Viking hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. A. Larson of Camrose has been visiting with her son Torleif and family for the past while. Mr. and Mrs. Bjorne Larson and family of Edmonton paid a visit to the Larson home last Sunday.

Mr. Hans Christensen is home again, his travels taking him no farther than Edmonton this time. It is good to see little Melvin Erickson in circulation again even if he is still somewhat handicapped for a little bit longer. He was out to Sunday School for the first time last Sunday since his accident on the 23rd of December.

Several carloads of Luther Leaguers journeyed to Bethania church last Sunday evening to present a program. Despite slippery roads the trip there and back was made safely by all, and all enjoyable evening with fellow Luther Leaguers is now history.

Mrs. Lena Nilson has recently received word of the passing of her mother in Norway, just prior to her 80th birthday. Mrs. Nilson visited her mother two years ago last summer. Deep sympathy is extended to Mrs. Nilson in her sorrow as well as to her family.

NORTH EAST CORNER

Last Wednesday afternoon quite a number of men gathered at the Steve Fucsko farm when Mr. McKee of Red Deer demonstrated the McKee feed cutter.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schieck and Betty Ann and Teddy of Unity, Sask., were visitors with relatives last week in the district.

We are glad to see that Mr. F. Ford Sr. is home again from the hospital.

A tall TV serial has appeared atop the Younker home during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Grynalski and family motored from Winnipeg at the weekend and are now at the George Ford home. From the description of the stormy conditions around Saskatoon on Saturday, we are very lucky here.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nemyo and back was made safely by all, and all enjoyable evening with fellow Luther Leaguers is now history.

Mr. Gene Meyers has recently returned from a very enjoyable 3-week's motor trip. During his travels he visited many interesting places, among them being Salt Lake City, the Hoover Dam, Las Vegas, and the Beautiful Red Wood Forest.

Congratulations to Violet Savard on winning a lovely aluminum corkscrew set Monday night at the cooking school.

Card of Thanks

I would like to express my sincere thanks to those who sent me cards, fruit, chocolates and gifts while I was in the hospital, also to those who came and visited me and sent gifts for the baby. It was very much appreciated.

—Donna Firkins.

Two Canadian provinces have their own flags. Nova Scotia's, granted by Royal Charter in 1621 shows a blue St. Andrew's cross on a silver field with the Royal Arms of Scotland on the cross. Quebec authorized a provincial flag in 1948, a white cross with 4 fleur de lis on a blue background.

GAS NEWSLETTER

NEWS AND VIEWS FROM YOUR GAS COMPANY

Northwestern Utilities, Limited

Northwestern Utilities' Customers Reach 83,500

November 1st, 1923 was an historic date — and an eventful one — for the people of North-Central Alberta.

In that year, Northwestern Utilities completed construction of a 78-mile line of 10-inch and 12-inch pipe from Viking to Edmonton. The year's end saw natural gas supplied to 1,300 customers in Edmonton and 300 in towns along the route.

Only modest increases in sales occurred during the depression years, and annual sales were but 3.5 billion cubic feet at the outbreak of the Second World War. During the war years the company met the challenge of providing natural gas to essential wartime industries. In the 10 years following 1938 it spent $4,500,000 on capital additions. It also acquired additional lands in the Kinsella field, increasing its reserves to approximately 390 billion cubic feet. By 1943 the company was supplying 19,500 customers with an annual volume of 8.5 billion cubic feet.

The growth of the Alberta natural gas industry has been spectacular since the war. The development of oil and petrochemical industries following the Leduc discovery in 1947 has been phenomenal. Tens of thousands of people have moved to Alberta and into the company's service area. To meet this challenge the company embarked upon an unprecedented expansion program.

From 1947 to 1957 Northwestern Utilities spent more than $40,000,000 on gross capital additions. Its annual sales jumped from 10.2 to 46.2 billion cubic feet, and the number of customers increased from 27,284 to 76,529. In 1947 the company served only 12 communities with a population of 136,000. At the end of 1957, service was supplied to 83,500 customers in 60 Alberta communities.

The trend to increased population and to greater industrial activity will continue.

THREE FAVORITE FISH DISHES

By Elizabeth Rae Goetz
(Home Service Director)

Fish is a Lenten tradition, and many people welcome the change in diet it suggests. Today, fresh and frozen fish are available in such variety that the number of appetizing fish dishes you can serve are almost unlimited. Here are three favorites of mine.

DEVILLED TOMATO HADDOCK

Thaw two 12-oz. packages of frozen haddock fillets and place in the bottom of a casserole. Cut each block into four pieces.

Slice very thinly 1 medium-sized onion and saute in 1 tsp. butter or margarine until tender.

Add one 10-oz. can tomato sauce, 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 1 clove garlic (crushed) or 1 tsp. garlic powder, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. thyme, 2 tsp. sugar and 1 tsp. basil, 2 tsp. chili sauce. Simmer gently for 8 minutes. Pour sauce over fillets. Bake for 20 minutes at 400° F. Serves four.

FRIED RICE WITH SHRIMP

You need:
• 1 cup rice • 1 1/2 cups soy sauce • 1 1/2 cups water • 2 tsp. peanut or salad oil • 2 eggs • 1 tsp. salt • 1 tsp. pepper • 1 lb. shrimp (canned or fresh), chopped if desired • 1 large onion, chopped • 1 lb. mushrooms, sliced • 1 tsp. sugar.

Wash the rice thoroughly. Soak in warm water for 15 minutes. Drain and rinse again. Combine in a saucepan with the water. Cover and bring to a boil.

Cook over low heat for 12 minutes or until the water is absorbed. Heat the oil in a large, heavy skillet. Break the rice into it and fry until firm. Then turn over and fry one minute.

Remove the pan from the heat and stir the rice into very dry shreds while still in the pan. Return to the heat.

Add the salt, pepper, shrimp, onions and mushrooms. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add the rice, soy sauce and sugar. Cook over medium heat for 5 minutes, stirring almost constantly.

ALASKA KING CRAB LEGS EN BROCHETTE

You need:
• 1 pkg. (12 oz.) frozen Alaska King crab legs • 1 lb. medium-sized mushrooms, peeled • 2 lemons, quartered • 2 tsp. olive oil or melted butter.

With a saw-blade knife cut the crab legs into pieces (1 1/2"). Defrost. Remove pieces from shell. Peel and cut stem ends from mushrooms.

Arrange alternate pieces of crab meat, mushrooms and lemon quarters on a skewer. Brush with oil or melted butter.

Place in pan. Broil 7 minutes on one side. Turn over and broil 5 minutes on the other side.

Serve on a hot platter. Serves three.

Because of the continued interest in Variety Demonstration Plots, a further limited distribution of seed will be made this year to farmers who are prepared to plant and care for a small local plot. Lily Lizard yawned daintily as she lay on a stone in the last light of the setting sun. The stone was really the roof of her house, for Lily lived under it with her brother Lonnie and their father and mother.

It was a very nice home, the Lizard family thought, for the stone kept the sun from making them too hot, and the wind from cooling them too much. There were little grass tufts on the floor, which Mother Lizard swept every day with a tiny thistle broom. There were beautiful dishes in the hutchbox cupboard, broken from the best china in the house where the humans lived. Father Lizard had a big chair made from an old sponge, while the others had stools made from red bottle lids, with moss cushions. Their table was a big round lid. And best of all, to Lily, in a corner stood a mirror. There were the only Lizard family to ever find a mirror and, my goodness, Lily was proud of it!

Mother Lizard called Lily in to supper, and as Lily was washing her hands in the bottle cap basin, she watched herself in the mirror. This was a very bad habit of Lily's. Mother Lizard always told her she'd get nowhere in the world if she was always prinking and preening. But Lily couldn't help staring, for she was such a lovely lizard, in her opinion.

"Just see that out corner girl," she'd say to herself, "and such bright, intelligent eyes! That long tongue—what a shapely figure!" So she was thinking as she dried on a patty towel.

"Young lady, get to the table, and stop mooning around!" ordered Father Lizard. Lonnie giggled as usual at the sight of Lily posing for the looking glass.

Lily hastily sat down and ate her fly stew. Because she was late again, Father Lizard would not let her have any buttercup pudding, her favorite dessert.

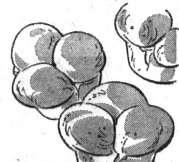

"You see, Lily? You don't get anything but trouble from thinking of yourself all the time. And the silliest thing I have ever heard, is the way you keep complaining because you have no hair. Learn to be happy with what you have, my dear. Stop wishing for what will always be out of your reach!"

So Mother Lizard advised, as she and Lily washed the dishes. Lonnie and Father were out hunting.

LILY LIZARD'S LESSON

ing bugs for tomorrow's meals. Lily felt very sorry for herself. No dessert, and now she had to do dishes while Lonnie was out in the exciting dark. And she was very tired of scoldings. Someday she'd run away, and prove her dreams weren't so silly. After tidying the kitchen, Mother Lizard took her bag and went to visit a neighbor, telling Lily to be good and go to bed early. Lonnie would soon be home.

When she was alone, Lily hummed a little song and did what you might think a very odd dance, but which she felt was graceful.

She watched herself in the mirror and as she did, she became sad again because she had no hair. Of course, she had never heard of a lizard who wasn't bald, but surely she was special! If she had hair, Lily dreamed, it would float around her face, and be as soft as the kitten at which Lily had peeped from under a leaf one day.

All at once Lily made up her mind. Tonight she would run away, and see if somehow she could get some hair. So Lily slipped out, very thrilled. She had never been out alone at night. She went slowly, looking for something she might use as her hair.

First she saw some dandelions, the white ones which go poof! when boys and girls blow them. She picked three of them and hurried home to the mirror. But when she got there, all of the dandelions had blown away but one, which looked very silly sitting on top of Lily's head. Even as she sadly looked at it, this last one broke and drifted into her eyes and nose.

Just then Lonnie came home, and when he saw Lily standing there with a mouthful of white fuzz, he just rolled on the floor and laughed.

When they reached the garden, they felt safe. As they sat patting under a cornstalk, Sarah Spider had an idea. "Of course! Of course! Why didn't I think of that before! Just the thing! Certainly!" As Lily stared at her in amazement, she suddenly disappeared, and Lily heard her get a little later, far up the stem.

Very shortly, cornstalk began to alight down. At last Lily understood, and she crept around gathering it up.

When she thought there was enough, Sarah floated down on a fine thread. Together she and Lily fashioned a fancy hair-do. The corn-silk was damp and stuck quite nicely to Lily's round head. She smoothed it with her green fingers and bent over a pan of Tearfully, Lily rushed outside again. She didn't stop running until she was too far away to hear Lonnie's hoofs of merriment. Next she tried yellow dandelions. In a drop of dew she could see her face, and the hair seemed better this time. But the only way she could make it stay was to hold the stems in her mouth and it didn't seem right, somehow.

So Lily wandered off again. She picked some grass, but it wouldn't stay on her slippery green head, and besides, it poked her eyes.

As she rubbed her sore eyes, Lily spied a cobweb floating on a bush. That should be better, she thought. With a happy smile, Lily began to pull the web down, winding it around her head. It stayed on very nicely, and Lily was patting it smugly into place when she felt something bite her foot.

And an angry little voice squeaked, "The very idea! Tearing down my lovely web! It took me hours to make that!"

Sarah Spider was so cross, she began looking for a twig to hit Lily. A very small twig, of course.

But hearing Lily's pitiful sobs, she stopped and looked up. "Oh! Me, oh my, it's the Lizard child! You've grown so, I didn't know who you were to call. I guess you didn't mean to make trouble for me. I'm sorry I snapped at you. My bark is worse than my bite, child."

Feeling her sore foot, Lily thought to herself that the bite was quite bad enough, and she hoped Sarah didn't begin to bark, too. Then she sobbed out the tale of her wish for hair, and Sarah kindly offered to help her get a wig.

But she muttered, "Don't see why you want hair. Spiders have no hair, and nothing is handsomer than a spider."

Lily didn't quite agree, but was so pleased with the offer of help that she nodded, and away they went.

Sarah thought that feathers would do nicely, but what an uproar the chickens raised when the strange pair crept into the pen! One mean old rooster, who should have been asleep anyway, chased Lily all across the henhouse with Clara crying tightly to her neck. So that was the last said about feathers.

When they reached the garden, they felt safe. As they sat patting under a cornstalk, Sarah Spider had an idea. "Of course! Of course! Why didn't I think of that before! Just the thing! Certainly!" As Lily stared at her in amazement, she suddenly disappeared, and Lily heard her get a little later, far up the stem.

Very shortly, cornstalk began to alight down. At last Lily understood, and she crept around gathering it up.

When she thought there was enough, Sarah floated down on a fine thread. Together she and Lily fashioned a fancy hair-do. The corn-silk was damp and stuck quite nicely to Lily's round head. She smoothed it with her green fingers and bent over a pan of water which had been left for the birds. Somehow, even though it stayed on, and made a tall golden crown, Lily was disappointed. She had to admit to herself that there was something a bit queer about a green lizard hair peering out of a nest of yellow ringlets.

But maybe it would look better in a proper mirror, and besides, she couldn't hurt Sarah Spider's feelings. So Lily smiled and nodded, to show Sarah how pleased she was. (You see, Lily was really a thoughtful lizard child, even though she spoiled it a bit by being proud.)

Content, Sarah scurried away, pausing only to warn Lily that it was time for her to go to bed.

It was time for little Lizard girls to head for their beds. "Because you know, after dark, the big grey housecat begins prowling, and although cats don't eat lizards that I've heard, you just can't be sure of anything where a cat is concerned."

So Lily dreamily started home, her new hair gleaming in the moonbeam. She was thinking so hard about how everyone would now notice her beauty, that she didn't notice something. She didn't notice Clara Cat padding behind to see what shiny thing was moving along her hunting ground.

All at once, Lily remembered Sarah's advice, and peered over her shoulder. Horrified, she saw Clara ready to pounce.

"Lily dear, I do believe you are going to be a better daughter. Somehow, even though you misbehaved tonight, you learned a lesson, didn't you?" And Mother Lizard put an arm around her daughter.

"I'll really try, mother. And from now on I will be content to be myself, and not waste time crying for things which I am not used to have!"

And though Lily is only a Lizard child, you human children could well learn a lesson from her sad experiences.

Province's 1958 fire death toll 37

A strong warning against the use of flammable liquids for lighting fires and dry cleaning clothes was issued by Hon. C. C. Williams, minister of labour and minister in charge of the Fire Prevention Act. "I have just received a report from the Fire Commissioner's office which states that Saskatchewan's fire death toll for 1958 stands at 37, the highest in several years," said Mr. Williams. "No less than 10 of those deaths arose from fires caused through mis-use of flammable liquids."

"This tragic toll persists despite regulations of the Fire Commissioner's office, that flammable liquids such as gasoline are to be stored and sold in red containers, with red tags affixed marked 'Danger', or 'Gasoline', and slating their contents must not be used to light fires, or to clean clothes or floors, or automobile parts," the Minister went on.

"These facts are continually stressed by inspectors from the Fire Commissioner's office in lectures to public meetings and school gatherings, and the dangers apparent in mis-use of flammable liquids was given special publicity during Fire Prevention Week last October," Mr. Williams said.

Mr. Williams noted that four persons died in fires resulting from the use of kerosene to light stoves; two died in fires resulting from tractors being filled with gas while the motor was left running; a child died in a fire after a gasoline container was upset; one person died in a fire which broke out as the victim cleaned clothes with gasoline; and two persons died when a tank truck exploded while being tugged.

"This fire toll is made doubly tragic when it is realized that 10 of the 37 victims were children," Mr. Williams said. "These tragedies are mute evidence of the need for constant vigilance to cope with the dangers of fire, and the special need for particular care in the handling and use of flammable liquids."

He also appealed to parents to see that children are protected from fire dangers in the home, and that such fire-danger articles as flammable liquids and matches are kept well beyond the reach of little hands. Under no circumstances should small children be allowed to play with matches.

Mr. Williams made this appeal in noting that in the 37 fire victims of 1958, 19 were children.

Mrs. A. E. Knudson and Mrs. C. Pyle motored to North Dakota about 2 weeks ago to attend the Silver Wedding anniversary celebrations of Mrs. Knudson's nephew. These ladies report a most enjoyable trip in spite of driving for 2 days through one of Saskatchewan's famous blizzards which they encountered on the return journey last weekend. They also saw plenty of deep snow in North Dakota and are thankful that Alberta doesn't have as much.

We understand that Messrs. Gene Myers, F. Valerie, M. C. Ambler and Kline Selstedt also returned recently from a motor trip to the U.S. We have not been able to get any details on their itinerary.
